

the ocean

the ocean came this morning like it's never come before the infinite, vibrant, living ocean of awareness bliss consciousness and i both swam it and was it infinite myself and a small, submersible coracle delighting in the boundless freedom, flow and subtle viscous-ness of it as it just perceptively swelled and billowed i floating, bobbing, diving through it all strictures fallen away